Waterside dining with magnificent Manhattan views draws patrons to the Water's Edge. The entire back wall of the restaurant is made of windows, affording superb views of the East River and the skyscrapers of Midtown. Elegant table settings and Louis XV-style chairs mark the dining room, decked out with original artwork and Oriental rugs. Menus change seasonally here; spring, for instance, might bring veal loin with young spinach and baby fennel, or grilled halibut with mango relish. If you're coming from Manhattan, why not skip the cab ride and go in style? Make dinner reservations at Water's Edge, and you can take the complimentary boat shuttle to the restaurant from the 34th Street pier.
